In 1938 there was one doctor for every 1,195 citizens. Now there is one doctor for every 1,145 people, and at the beginning of 1950 there will be one doctor for each 1,097 people

In the Five-Year Plan doctors are to be relieved of all their administrative work. This year at least 2,000 women will be schooled as assistants to doctors. Those chosen for the course will be mostly superfluous public-office workers, law-office employees, graduates of specialized schools, and women from homes. After a month's training and 5 months' practice, these women, who must be from 18 to 40, will find good employment.
